

Which Inventor gets the patent? Inventor A, B or C ?

Inventor A gets the patent because he was the first to Publish his invention and file his patent in less than a year of publishing the invention

Inventor B does not get the patent even though he filed first because in order to get the patent you have to be the first inventor to publish the invention before filing for the patent (up to 12 months before filing)

Although Inventor C was the first to invent and the first to file, it is a requirement to publish your invention before filing for the patent and since he didnt publish anything before filing for the patent he doesnt qualify
